1-2

Unscrew the front end nuts that hold together the meter instruments, and in their position use the (M6X18) adaptors – as shown in the above photos 1 & 2.

3

Clip the clips as shown in the left hand photo. Have a look on the next page to see how and where to place the metallic plates – we place them at the back of each metallic plate in the square hole. You may need to push them a bit harder on the sides so that they clip firmly.

If in the installation package the gelatin is not already placed on the mask, you will need to do it, using the small nuts and screws that you will find inside the package.

Put in place the metallic plates as you see in the above photos (4-5&6). First place the top ones on the adaptors that you have already positioned and tightened in place. Do not securely tighten them yet so that you may make any adjustments if needed. The lower metallic plates hold in place the headlight so proceed by gradually tightening them in place – try on the mask to make sure the metallic plates are in the correct position and make your adjustments before tightening.

Finally place the mask in position and gradually tighten the screws in place. You may still make any adjustments if needed before you finalise tightening it in place.

The end result should appear as in the photo
